Having received an MBA from Stanford University, Graduate School of Business in Silicon Valley, he provides advice not only from a legal viewpoint but also from a managerial and strategic perspective. He participates aggressively in the legal and tax planning aspects of mergers and restructuring of failing companies so that they can achieve the best outcomes from a financial perspective. In addition to the above, in recent years he has dedicated substantial time and energy towards inheritance and succession cases involving non-Japanese family members and/or assets located outside Japan.
